Details: Tinamou is a band composed of dear friends who love to make music, but love each other more. It all started with Cameron and Morgan, best friends since infancy. The two began collaborating at a very young age and continued to play together as they grew. Both became good friends with Nina while in high school, who introduced Anthony to the duo. The duo became a trio in July of 2007 (when Anthony passed the rigorous examination required for all potential members, of course). The final catalyst, however, was Ninas inception in March of 2008. Hence the trio evolved into a quartet, and, much to macro evolution's chagrin, no more evolution was required. Tinamou was, and is, complete and content to be so. These comrades collaborate to create sights and sounds inspired by life, love, and Scripture
