Rock/pop style with a mix of classical, resonator and electric guitars and baritone vocals. 13 MP3 Songs
POP: Pop/Rock, ROCK: Acoustic Show all album songs: Catalyst Songs Details: Charley Ramsay performed original songs and played lead guitar in the Austin band "Hey Zeus" for ten years before taking time off to "find himself". He moved to California and found his wife instead. Over 15 years later, Charley now has a career that pays more than it costs and doesn't involve traveling in a van with musicians across the states. He now travels in a van with his six children across Austin. Catalyst is officially Charley's mid-life crisis album, and contains twelve new songs that feature baritone vocals crowning smart lyrics on a bed of classical, national resonator and electric guitars. It was produced by Joseph Victor of Gang of Hair Studios (gangofhair.com). The songs range from the big-guitar rock anthem, Monkey See Monkey Do -- a satirical look at the YouTube Generation, to the melancholy Catalyst, which echoes a father's care for the next generation. He wrote most of the CD's material while commuting to and from work using his truck's CD player, a harmonica, pocket voice recorder and a blackberry to jot down lyrics. No moving violation tickets were issued during the making of this album. Charley Ramsay's influences include Chris Whitley, Mark Knopfler, and John Hammond. Charley recorded in Gang Of Hair Studios, Andy Sharp's Austin Studio and in his garage with crickets and his kids in the background. Visit Charley at charleyramsay.com.
