His angelic tenor voice and compelling finger style guitar work reach out and envelop the listener. His engaging, comfortable style invites you in and leaves you wanting more. A performing musician for the past 26 years, Jonathan honed his talents, performing with a variety of talented singers in bands and duos. In 2003 he ventured out on his own, performing his own material, in his own style. That style caught the ear of HBO when they heard the song "Lorena", while searching for music to be used in their new series "Big Love". The song is from Jonathan's sister Helen's CD, "When The Galop Was The Rage". (helenbeedle and cdbaby.com/cd/beedle) "Lorena" was used during a pivotal scene in the final episode of the season. "A Long Day Gone", produced by Grammy Award winning producer and engineer, Glenn Barratt from Morning Star Studios, is Jonathan's first solo CD. This CD showcases Jonathan's musicianship and inviting vocal style, as well as, song-writing skill. Songs from this collection quickly earned him a finalist seat in The Plowshares National Songwriter contest and continue to garner interest among his peers. Jonathan Beedle is definitely an artist to watch for in 2006, one whose obvious talent will not go unnoticed.
