Details: Gifted with the ability of an incredible artist and songwriter, William Staggars is a combination of a throwback to the days of Real Music composed on real instruments along with the savvy beats of today.

A native of Little Rock, Arkansas, William began playing the piano at age 3. By the time he was 12, William was a full-fledged musician in his church where he played piano for the choir and sang. After graduating from high school, William earned a four-year choral music scholarship to Philander Smith College. Though his true artistry is literally the ability to make a piano or any keyboard walk, William is also an exceptional, accomplished saxophonist. His velvety smooth voice and playing abilities has enabled William to perform for a long list of dignitaries. In 1990, Williams college professor introduced him to then Governor of Arkansas and now Former President of the United States, Bill Clinton. On several occasions William played for jazz brunches held at the Governors mansion during Mr. Clintons term as Governor of Arkansas. Furthermore, William had the distinctive honor of performing for President Clinton on many occasions during his term as President of the United States. William has also performed for Jerry Jones, owner of the Dallas Cowboys and Middle Weight Champion Of The World, Jermaine Taylor. William has performed with many artists such as Al Green, Isaac Hayes, Albert King, Larry Totsy Davis and Ron Kenolly. Hes also opened shows for The Four Tops, Peabo Bryson, B.B. King, Johnnie Taylor, Javier, Johnnie Winters, Rick James, Koko Taylor, Freda Payne, Tyrone Davis, Shirley Caesar, "Comedian" Rich Little and many more. William taught music history and choir classes in the Little Rock Public School District for over five years. He left teaching school to spend more time with his solo career in music. William currently owns and operates a recording studio, Staggers Music Entertainment, where he specializes in audio mastering. In 2006, William released an album project and got excellent reviews. William has produced several albums for other recording artists across the country and has recently released his featured album, "SEARCHIN". At 65 and a wealth of stage presence, William is a natural live performer. The second oldest of four children, William credits his parents with providing a stable two-parent household and plenty of love for him to nurture his gift. A gift he looks forward to sharing for many generations to come. When William is not on the road or over seas, he can be seen performing in some of the distinguished restaurants and venues around town in Little Rock, Arkansas. Come out and see William!!
