What? You color your tree trunks ... purple?. Then this sweet yet challenging acoustic collection about being yourself is for you. 14 MP3 Songs KIDS/FAMILY: General Children's Music, KIDS/FAMILY: Children's Pop Details: Some musicians appeal to grown-ups while others work only with kids. Then theres that less common artist whose work truly speaks to grown-ups and children alike. Thats Jack Pearson, Mr. Song-Strummin Storyman! Growing up in a musical Midwestern family set the stage for the night in 1965 when Jack discovered the guitar at a campfire. From there it was banjo, mandolin, fiddle, jawharp, spoons, songs, songs and more songs! A few years studying philosophy at the University of Minnesota and Jack was off down a twisting, joyous path of musical storytelling. Since then, Jack has sung, strummed, written, told, fiddled and danced his way around the United States performing over 200 concerts per year. Jack cares deeply about the arts in education. Each year brings him to K-6 schools around the country as a performer and resident artist where he leads workshops for the children exploring music, writing and storytelling. Jack has a special love of seeing kids play their own music and he carries on that age-old folk tradition with his line of hand-crafted folk instruments such as jawharp, rhythm spoons and the limberjack. Jack also performs frequently in church settings where he brings a refreshing creativity to the timeless faith journey. In addition to performing, Jacks recordings have become favorites in households across the country. His work has been recognized with Parents Choice Gold and Silver Honor Awards as well as Pegasus and Storytelling World Honor awards. Jacks songs for kids can be heard nationally on satellite XM radio programming. He has also recorded extensively for grown-ups. A complete product listing as well as other information is available at ottertunity.com Jacks work is firmly rooted in family life. He lives in Minneapolis, Minnesota with his wife and occasional accordion partner, Nancy. When he isnt writing, recording or performing, Jack runs, reads, tromps around Minnesota collecting rocks, fixes the house and thinks about things. With an audience that typically ranges from 2 to 82, the Chautauqua Family Entertainment Series offers a formidable challenge for even the most seasoned performer. Your ability to handle that audience with your trademark sincerity, good humor and unabashed affection was remarkable. Jack Voelker, Chautauqua Institution, NY
