The brothers along with ten other recording artists met in the studio from July-Oct 2008 to create this dreamy, techno sound, and look forward to creating more work with the group in the coming months. As daku mata studios, they have produced Aporia's new self titled release, as well as film score and theatrical scenic music. "All I can hope is that people will keep an eye on us, and help us sell a few CD's so we can continue."
