Whether labeled New Age or World music, the sounds of Anhinga are universal, inspired and masterful! Soulful and Exotic with a Heartbeat (--Robert Al Walee, aka Bob Lee, da Mayor of the Fifth Ward, Houston Texas) When the medicine doesnt work, I put on Anhinga and my migraine is gone! (--K. C., Bethesda, MD.) Sam Caldarera Sam got his first Native American flute Flute in 1992. As a teenager Sam had played jazz trumpet and in college took up the classical guitar. One of the attractions to the flute was that I could improvise, play what I felt and create my own songs. I got together with my friend, Gene Fritts who plays guitar, and we made our first CD in 1995, calling our group Anhinga. This CD, Sacred Sounds of the Southwest, was a dream come true for me. A few years later Anhingas second CD, "Turquoise Visions , came out (2001). Anhinga has sold over 50,000 CDs and it is thrilling knowing that 30 of those have been international sales. With Morning, fans can enjoy Sams ongoing musical journey, with the inclusion of the Didgeridoo. Gene Fritts Gene Fritts has been playing guitar since the age of 15 and has taken an intricate journey through its possibilities. Starting with Rock and Roll (winning the Big Music America Contest in Houston, Texas, in 1981), Gene has played everything from Folk (playing at the Kerrville Folk Festival) to Salsa, Blues to Jazz all with ease and skill. Caren Gertner Fritts Caren Gertner Fritts adds her natural percussion to Anhinga with the fun stuff, as Caren puts it. With Native

American rattles and drum, rain stick, chimes, and an assortment of instruments, she seamlessly complements the Flute and Guitar.
