Her huge fanbase who has been fixtated on her modeling careerr now eagerly awaits her music release. Beautiful enough to be a successful model and talented enough to write and sing in her sweet and soulful voice, her Asian inspired music cleverly blended with modern R&B, Kaila is clearly establishing her own unique identity as she crosses Musical borders and arrives at what promises to be the start of an immensely successful career. Her international appeal is also widened by that fact that she can sing fluently in her native language, mandarin and has plans to release tracks in mandarin. Kaila acted as executive producer on her current album release. She overlooked every aspect of the project and wrote or co-wrote almost all of the songs on her album. She says "I truly believe that I need to be completely involved in the creation of my music from beginning and end because I want the audience to hear what I have to say, not what someone else wrote. My favorite song on the cd is "Just A Dream", it shows a side of me that I try to hide and I recorded all my vocals for that song in a home studio, completely alone, so that song is truly and extension of myself. I think the song that best represents me. Kaila's tracks were produced by the track master Mr Lew, who has tracks on the B2K and IMX projects and mastered by The Gubnah, who has worked on the platinum Vanessa Williams album. As an artist she is not at all afraid to express her sexuality and isn't overly concerned with staying with the norm or listening to what others have to say. Born in Taipei, Kaila moved to California when she was three and got into music at an early age. She began taking piano lessons at the age of 10, enrolled in jazz and ballet classes and toured with a Chinese Folk Dance group. In her youth she was passionate about creating and producing and would act as executive producer for showcases and plays for the neighbourhood and school. Although her dream was always to be a singer, Kaila pursued acting and modeling as she attended UCLA as an Economics Major. She also enrolled in singing classes and joined the choir, and in her spare time continued to work on her music. She auditioned for and won the lead in a musical called "No Turning Back", the prophetic story of a young girl who wished to pursue a singing career over the objections of her parents. The director of the play encouraged Kaila to pursue music and set her up with a gig to perform at Club Soho in Los Angeles. Singing live on stage for the first time in front of an enthusiastic crowd was the catalyst that ignited Kaila's passion to perform, and from that moment on she began actively pursuing a musical career.
