Hearing Scott's arrangements of familiar songs and his original compositions, you will understand why he has been a popular soloist across the US and Eastern Europe. His music can be heard on many radio stations on both continents. For many years Scott was a session musician performing with entertainers such as Glen Campbell, Mary Wells, George Shearing, The Platters, The Mills Brothers, and many others. He was also a soloist and lead trumpet player in the U.S. Air Force Band. Since 1995, Scott has been giving concerts across the US in churches, schools, prisons, conventions, camps. He has also conducted master classes for high school and college students and performed on television programs. In Eastern Europe, he performs in concert halls, clubs, orphanages, coffee houses, schools, universities, refugee camps, conferences, as well as churches. Reviews... "Java, Jazz Jesus" is a transgenerational work of art that weaves the historic songs of faith into a refreshing new sound that is as much at home in the traditional Cathedral as in the modern coffee house. Scott's two original compositions (Java, Jazz Jesus, and Samba D'Van) show that Christian music is alive and growing in a way that will please anyone with an ear for music."
