Folk Details: Seamus Gavin is a lawyer by trade and a songsmith by profession. He served his musical apprenticeship busking his way from Ireland to London. His music speaks for itself..... but read on...

Seamus Gavin bio The past At the age of 10 I met the legendary Cathal Mac Connell. He taught me tin whistle and the basics. I strayed from Fermanagh to Derry and helped man an outpost of DIY lawyers in the Bogside. I shipped out to Leicester and busked my way through Law School and the local folk clubs. London beckoned so I continued to play their tune in the hope that Law would reveal its mysteries. It never did and never will. Folk clubs became my opium between briefs. The present I find myself recording those songs and melodies that come from everywhere and nowhere. My work is a fusion of socially conscious lyrics wrapped in melodic sounds. I am in the process of taking the UK Government to the European Court for breaches of environmental legislation and the proceeds of sale of my music helps me in this quest. The songs..... 1. One way world One-way world a spaceman's view of earthmans' inhumanity to this planet. 2. Esensual A love song that had it genesis in a session after some musicians tormented me. 3. There is a war War is war, particularly the brutal one in Bosnia. 4. To the Bone The Bone pays homage to my late brother, a great man on the bodhran. 5. Vagabond This is an autobiographical song plotting my trek from Fermanagh to London. 6. Seani This is the story of the struggle faced by a Fermanagh piper on the eve of the famine in Ireland in 1843. Not much call for dedicated musicians in those days, except at funerals. Seani, his wife Aggie and their three children are evicted and suffer at the hands of Mr Rule (the landlord's agent). 7. Hedges Hedges recounts the tale of how Haringey Council and Wolsley (a 4 Billion USA globalised monopoly in the pipe industry) built 4 massive warehouses in a residential area opposite my house after felling about a 100 trees. I sued the lot of them and had the site declared illegal. However, the UK government, in its wisdom, failed to incorporate the European legislation properly so they think they got away with it (for the moment) without paying a penny in fines and/or compensation. It now falls on me to bring the matter before the European Court. 8. Justice just a dirty word Justice This is the story of the execution of John Baird Jr in Ohio in February 2002. He was innocent. I, like thousands of others , petitioned for a clemency. John put up a honourable fight through the Courts, but was put to death. His hands were gentle. 9. Wee War Same War only different. 10. Shine A silly song in a sensible sort of way. 11. Ode Ode started off as a complaint about the current moves by Tony Blair and his mates to censor musicians in the UK through the new licensing laws. It uses the current crises in the Gulf as a backdrop. Free Tommy Zeigler - 30 years on death row justicedenied
