Chill Vol.1 Songs Details: Chill vol.1 the tertiary secrete from Abstrakt Reality is a laid back temperamental downbeat compilation. The propose starts with a very melodious cross from new artist Soma sonic. Coming from Canada, this brother duo combines soulful chords with the underground feel of drum and bass with their cross " Future". A well-polished production makes this duo a must listen. Look out for a full secrete from this team. Next is Noel Zancanella, Noel leans more toward the jazzy trip hop style of production with his cross "where edges meet". With full strings and vocal samples, A very well produced cross with a strong but smooth rhythm foundation. Also look for a full secrete from Noel Z. The Mighty one comes from Los Angeles and brings a sort of experimental style of downbeat jazz. Also a new to Abstrakt, the cross "lazy bones Jones" makes very good use of the roads piano as he takes you through his musical journey of rich textured sounds and effects. Mr. soon creates a universe of ambiance that can be compared to Miles Davis on planet mars. Mr. soon with his cross "softcore" takes far away from reality, as you know it. The deep reverb trumpet set on top of a alien landscape of moving melodies and strange sounds that add to a universe all his own. Sit back and imagine the soundcross to the movie of your mind. Demolition squad is just that, with the cross " looking out for number one" A very impressive use of sounds and piano mixed with a funky rhythm foundation. Sort of imagine a funky 2001 soundcross.
The duo are masters at the art of musical sound collage. "Danger Will Robertson, Danger "!!!!!!! David Bartel with his tertiary secrete ("give it back") with Abstrakt brings us somewhere between a futuristic racecross and the underground club of trip hop/downbeat. This cross takes you on a few plateaus of musical enjoyment. As it moves from a laid back violin influenced cross to a more energetic drum and bass expressed offering. Always bringing us back to his world a nice offering from David. Zimar makes good use of the trumpet in the cross " my world ". Somewhere in-between deepeche mode and a soulful melodious Miles, this cross is well placed in the definition of the word chill. Very laid back and melodious, the way Zimar likes his music. Cavestar delivers a very world beat electronic cross with "spirit writing" you fell like you are actually on the reservation exploring the planes through your spirit guide. A nice use of ethnic flutes and rhythms along with sampled tribal vocals sets Cavestar as one of the foundation members of reality Abstrakt. The duo Mekanik makes use of experimental hip-hop to it's finest. The cross " girls who really know " is an ever-changing hip-hop cross with well placed vocal samples and strange sounds. It never stands still as the combination of smooth textured sounds caress your soul and then rip a hole through your mentality all in a controlled chill environment.
