Details: Error Dialogs is complex breakbeat, drum-n-bass, jungle, and industrial music programmed and performed by a jazz pianist. Some of Adam's influences at the time of this recording were Roni Size, Squarepusher, Amon Tobin, Goldie, Aphex Twin, and Ed Rush. This is a CD-R with full cover art. Adam Pfeffer is best known for his psychotic piano playing and experimental electronic music. As of 2008 Adam has been playing piano for 24 years, guitar and bass for 6 years, and has recently started playing drums. Adam grew up on Long Island in New York, got an electrical engineering degree from Valparaiso University in Indiana, studied music engineering at Cogswell College in Sunnyvale California, and now lives in San Diego California. Adam has performed and/or recorded with the bands Spitkiss, Streaming Audio, and Googaloo, as well as many others. Adam began playing piano and composing at age 13, but didn't start recording and producing music until he was finished with college at age 22. Between 1996 and 2008 Adam Pfeffer has made over 100 recordings available for download on the internet. There are very few people who can work full time as an engineer while independently releasing several full length albums. Adam Pfeffer is one of these people.
