Reviews of "Songs for the Time Being": DallasMusic.com: "Once in a while...DIY rookies will use their record releas(e) to astound and amaze us. Eric Folkerth is one of these....The song writing on this record is just amazing...Eric has proven with this CD that he's not just another coffeehouse guitar strummer. He is a legitimate singer/songwriter that is waiting to be discovered, and I hope it won't be long until he is." The GlobalMuse.com: "The lyrics are very intelligent and contain the ingredients of beauty and truth that is a quality of only the best singer/songwriters. This music is very inspirational and extremely infectious....Simply put, this is a great album." Radio Valhalla: "Eric is a man with a clue. And the clue is about how to write damn good songs. "I Will Sing" captures the spirit of music and just plain makes you feel good...This song could put the makers of Prozac out of business."
