I wrote 'Portland' in 1978 and 'Another Place And Time' in 2004. Most People would say 26 years is a pretty big chunk of time! I've got a bunch of newer songs that I plan to record; they'll be on my own website as soon as I can get some good takes in the can. My website features some information about these songs, but the music should speak for itself! Too much more commentary should go to the 'I'm a legend in my own mind' department." Musical Style: "I play acoustic guitar almost exclusively now, so I suppose you could call my stuff 'Modern Folk.' Some people (not me) have compared my music to the Beatles, Jim Croce, or even Marshall Crenshaw, so I guess you could call it 'Pop Music.' I don't really care about categories or being inside some kind of envelope; I'm just putting chords and melodies together in ways that I like. I'm like a guy digging in the sand, looking for a treasure- I found some things and I'm still digging." Thanks to the following musicians for playing on "Songs From CareyChaney.Com" :
