Her sweeping 3 octave range, and clear, pure tone leaves her listeners captivated and awed. She exhibits a "oneness" with the music she performs. Her unique originals, filled with beautiful metaphors to Mother Nature, are characterized by the earthiness of folk, the substance of new thought, and the empathy of hard-earned wisdom. "My original compositions are like pictures in time. Moments that trickle into memory and live there." Lisa performs and composes with an Autoharp. She is self-taught so her technique is uniquely stylized. The mellow, full-bodied sounds of Lisa's voice blending with the 36 string Autoharp combine to create an intimate aura which soothes, uplifts and renews your spirit. Each composition gently offers a view into the hidden parts of ourselves. She borrows her imagery from the beauty that surrounds us and the similarities between us. Freedom of expression, permission for the process, and respect for Creation, including ourselves, motivates her music. Her music connects with people. "People leave my performances soothed and relaxed. My intention is to open up your ears followed closely by your heart. I offer respite from the stresses we all experience. Music has power. I choose to sing songs that convey a message. Some purposefully contain more than one. Each listener will hear the message that is appropriate for them. I want at least one person in my audience to feel good about where they have been, where they are now, and the choices they have about where they might be going."
