Left Over World-L.O.W. first studio demo. Crunching heavy metal music that will kick your ass and leave you begging for more. 6 MP3 Songs METAL: 90's Metal, METAL: Heavy Metal Details: Left Over World "L.O.W." is a Milwaukee based metal band with hard intense screams mixed with melodic vocals and a singer with the ability to throw his voice from an angry growl to an almost pop-like ear pleasing groove. The band, known as L.O.W. was started in the summer of 2000. The founding band members are Eli Bergseth and Tom Peffer. Tom Peffer was in charge of guitars and Eli Bergseth the drums. Then L.O.W. found bassist Larry Gammill. Shortly after Larry joined L.O.W. he introduced Chad Schreiner to L.O.W.. L.O.W. decided they wanted another guitar player, and Chad was it. In early 2004, the L.O.W. line up changed and Mike Stut joined as the new vocalist. Currently, L.O.W. is working on recording a new CD. The L.O.W. CD should be available by May, 2005 if not sooner. Here are some reviews of our music off of Garageband.com: AWESOME!!! i loved the vocals in the song it went right with the guitar, i would love to hear all of that song again. - sevendusthome New Hudson, Michigan These guys are TIGHT!! Vocals are interesting. They almost pull it off like Fear Factory going from the "singing" to the "metal singing." I like it. The band is tight on all their changes and stops. Good structure to the song. Driving sound, production quality is a bit muddy but the music is good enough to stand apart from it. - Soulsforrent Des Plaines, Illinois Great song man this kicked my ass.... what a great mix.... the changes are impeccable and the vocal phrasing fits like a glove around this roller-coaster ride of a song "incredible job" - davetmaze Philadelphia, Pen Schizophrenia at it's Greatest The vocals of this song were extremely volatile, which is pretty cool, I guess. The other music however is pretty basic. One of the riffs is sort of catchy, but not something likely to get stuck in my head. I noticed some decent bass in the background. "This make is kind of whack...it's alright" - (The roommate review) - SoulDrain Urbana, Illinois
