Fall is the 5th release by independent dark pop band Nothing Inside. Nothing Inside has been combining elements of industrial, Euro synth-pop, ethereal goth, EBM, and electro-experimentalism since the mid-'90s and has built a cult following that spreads 16 MP3 Songs POP: with Electronic Production, ELECTRONIC: Ambient Details: Early Review from Prick Magazine: "Atlanta's Nothing Inside has been combining elements of industrial, Euro synth-pop, ethereal goth, EBM, and electro-experimentalism since the mid-'90s and has built a cult following that spreads far outside its hometown in the process. On its fifth full-length release, NI seems to have found a comfortable balance between these various influences creating a cohesive group of songs ranging from disturbingly dark to hypnotically serene. Opening with "Used to be Cool" - a song reminiscent of Real Live's '80s hit "Send Me An Angel" - Fall ventures through abrasive Skinny Puppy-esque territory, some fasterpaced melancholy dance tunes, and moments of Devoinspired synth-quirkiness before ending with the nightmarish spoken-word track "Tom and Jerry." NI will be performing live at Dragon*Con in Atlanta from Aug 30 to Sept 2." - Jonathan Williams (Music Editor)
