Instrumental, solo acoustic guitar. Melodic, edgy, and inspiring. 10 MP3 Songs CLASSICAL: New Age, CLASSICAL: Contemporary Details: Guitarist/Composer Byron Estep has performed and/or recorded as a soloist, as the guitarist for Aboriginal Bluegrass (with Didgeridoo player David Corter), as the guitarist for the Unsung String Duo (with violinist Matthew Pierce), and as a part of numerous other bands (including Sandy Bell, the Angstones, Blue Man Group, Katharine Blodgett, Violet, Lucky, The Ranchhands, and many others). He has performed in venues ranging from the Wooster Group's Performing Garage to Carnegie Hall's Weill Recital Hall. He has been a featured guest on the WNYC radio show "New Sounds" with John Schaeffer and has been praised in Guitar Player magazine for his "happening harmonies and left-of-center vision." As a composer he has written two feature length film scores: one for "You are Here" (Johnny Pictures, 2001) and one for "The Lifestyle" (Good Machine, 2000). He has also supplied music and score for a number of television projects including A&E Biography, Court TV, the Disney Channel and commercial spots for Forbes, FILA, DirectTV, and NasCar. He has also written music for two video games, "Unipong" and "FreeBowl," both made by Large Animal Games. He is currently working as a music director for the hit shows Blue Man Group "Tubes" and "Live at Luxor" and is working on a new solo record set to be released sometime in early 2004.
