Versatility prevails in the form of an urban soldier. . . Get Bent. Is there justice through music? With music there is no justice, so we must live for the moment. In the streets of LA a new form of young South Central Lyricist emerges. A Central American native, he adopted the name 'Get Bent.' Although individuals choose to assign their own definition to the name, it originated from the literal meaning: v. bent (b nt): determined on a fixed course of action. Get Bent is determined to shake the world, determined to be the best. He encompasses the very definition of his name in his attitude toward music and life; and he won't be prevented from taking over. Hip-hop is his first true love, reggae runs through his veins; and together they annihilate. Changing the Global Setting . . . Get Bent, now out of Los Angeles, has moved from country to country and state to state, giving him the most unique sound ever heard on the hip-hop scene. Get Bent has traveled between Chicago, New York, Houston, Los Angeles, and Belize. By taking the best aspects of music from each location, Get Bent creates Hip-Hop form that is universal and transcends stereotypes. He has lived the hard street life and seen what many rappers only speak on, but his children push him to accomplish more, not only for himself. Determination is not the only thing on his side, but so is experience. Get Bent has been in the music scene for years. He has a large following in Belize and some of his fans have even followed his music to the new country. His United States fan base continues to grow at an unparalleled rate. He is a producer as well as a lyricist, writing songs for artists from Los Angeles to Chicago.
