Dan DeLuca-Philadelphia Inquirer "Common Senses is governed by classic pop songwriting(think Jimmy Webb and John Sebastian) and production sensibilities and Kaufmann's delectable wheezy croon.He's a 60's revisionist who deserves to work in his chosen vintage,as he knows how to operate the machinery and pull the strings...a fine,fine solo effort from one of Philly's more under-publicized songwriting talents." Patrick Berkery-Philadelphia Weekly "Recalling the quality songwriting of Harry Nilsson,Todd Rundgren,Jules Shear,Gram Parsons and Jimmy Webb,Kaufmann's versatile nature and eclectic repertoire-from country-folk to breezy folk-pop,from blue-eyed soul to epic ballad.from meaty funk to fragile jazz-pop,Kaufmann never fails to amaze and impress." Kevin Mathews-PowerofPop.com "Common Senses is varied without being vagabond,which is to say that despite its wide palate of sounds,they all sound like they came from the same record collection.If you gotta grow up,this is the way to do it." Sam Adams-Philadelphia City Paper
