Details: Turning away from his band, the Underground Township, Graham released this acoustic album to not only remind him how and where he began his music career, but also to offer fans a more personal look at his songwriting. All of these songs were recorded in his drummer and friend's apartment, vocals and guitar at the same time and ultimately almost forgotten about until Town Council Publishing President Wayne Dalchau encouraged Graham to release a solo acoustic cd. Graham and the Township are currently in the studio recording their new album due out this winter sometime and are usually found spotting clubs and bars throughout the east coast and south.
