Sick and tired of paying half your weeks pay check to a satellite company that doesnt deliver? Then this might be what youre looking for... Satellite TV on pc: discover the truth about satellite TV on your pc internet services. What Does it do? Want to save money on all your online purchases? Get my 100 truth reviews and updates for FREE... Just enter your name and email address below and Ill let you know whether these sorts of things are worth buying or not! Name Email Basically allows you to watch up to 5000 different TV channels that are usually only available through satellite stations/systems. Many of these are trials that you can get continued access to, or channels which you get as part of a satellite package. You have to download 5 different pieces of software to access all of the channels available. There is also an option to stream many of the channels through your standard web browser. Is this just too good to be true? What is the quality like? Is it worth the time and money? Find out everything you need to know in this in-depth, honest review... Unless youve been living under a rock for the last 10 years, youll know how much Satellite TV costs...too much! In fact, its over $90 per month ongoing, plus all of the install costs. This sort of pricing is similar in the UK too, where theres also no escape from the steep price hikes just to get some entertainment in our homes these days. Then when you do take the plunge, youve got the endless arguments over what to watch on TV. After all, you cant please everyones tastes and moods all the time, at the same time, right? Theres no surprise as to why the latest craze of accessing satellite tv from the internet and desktop PCs (and laptops) has become so popular. Beware though, because many mimic sites offer nothing more than a search engine for free online TV channels. Plus, many of the other websites fail to offer enough choice, which is one of the features that satellite tv is designed for. So, if youre sick of using Youtube or free view channels to get your kick of daily tube driven entertainment, then this review of the satellite tv to pc software may come in useful. I chose to review satellitetvtopc because they have the most choice, they are 100 legit and legal, and they are the leading Satellite TV to PC service online. They also give lifetime access with a full guarantee, and no extra monthly charges. Im going to look to see what you get when you sign up, whether its worth the money, who I think this would be right for (if anyone at all) and ultimately whether I think its worth the money I paid or not. This review should give you a better idea of what this latest craze is all about and should also help you make a better balanced buying decision! Contents Watch various satellite TV channels in your browser Watch various satellite TV channels through their downloadable software (5 different software downloads for different channels) Bonuses: Desktop MP3 Player, DVD Burning Software, iPod Converter Software, Antispyware Software
