

The Ethics Of Screening In Health Care And Medicine

DOWNLOAD HERE

From the contents: Acknowledgements Chapter 1: Introduction 1.1 The Wilson and Jungner Criteria 1.2 Point and Plan 1.3 The Concept of Screening Chapter 2: Why Screening? 2.1 Screening, Treatment and Prevention: Preliminary Remarks 2.2 Health: Life and Well-being 2.2.1 Health and Counselling 2.2.2 The Good of People and of the Population 2.3 Autonomy 2.3.1 Respecting and Promoting Autonomy 2.3.2 Promoting Autonomy through Screening 2.4 Justice 2.5 Summary Chapter 3: Screening What, When and Whom? 3.1 Diseases and Groups 3.1.1 Prenatal Screening 3.1.2 Neonatal Screening 3.1.2.1 Reasons for Screening in the Neonatal Period 3.1.2.2 Neonatal Screening and Parental Informed Consent 3.1.2.3 Expanding Neonatal Screening How Far? 3.1.3 Child and Adolescent Screening 3.1.3.1 Stigmatisation 3.1.3.2 The Child as Decision Maker 3.1.4 Adult Screening 3.2 Testing and Analysis 3.2.1 Safety 3.2.2 Validity 3.2.3 Predictive Value 3.3 Treatments 3.3.1 Abortion as Treatment 3.3.2 Counselling as Treatment 3.4 Summary Chapter 4: Screening How? 4.1 Informed Consent 4.2 Counselling 4.2.1 Genetic Counselling as a Template 4.2.2 Expansion: Shared Decision Making 4.3 Funding and Participation 4.4 Summary Chapter 5: Case Studies 5.1 Non-Invasive Prenatal Diagnosis 5.2 Neonatal Screening for Fragile X 5.3 Mammography Screening 5.4 PSA Screening for Prostate Cancer Chapter 6: Serving Society or Serving the Patient? 6.1 Summary of the Analysis So far 6.2 The Public Health Health Care Tension Area 6.3 The Relevance of a Social Science Perspective 6.4 An Institutional Approach to health-related Ethics: A Sketch 6.5 Applying the Institutional Approach: Three Cases 6.5.1 Institutions, Functions and Ethics: Reproductive Care vs. Communicable Disease 6.5.2 Direct to Consumer Genetic Testing: The Limits of Context Relativity 6.5.3 Screening and Justice: The Case Against Allocating Health Care Resources to Screening 6.6 Revisiting the Wilson and Jungner Criteria for Screening 6.7 Closing

EAN/ISBN : 9789400720459 Publisher(s): Springer, Berlin, Springer Netherlands Discussed keywords: Medizinische Ethik, Screening-Test, Vorsorgemedizin / Vorsorgeuntersuchung Format: ePub/PDF

Author(s): Juth, Niklas - Munthe, Christian

DOWNLOAD HERE

Similar manuals: