Although all four are from different parts of the country, having varying backgrounds, their unified force has put out some powerful music with passionate lyrics,driving guitars and rythms. Originally formed in 2002, they previously released a debut, full-length CD entitled "juxtaposition" under the band name Critical Mass. (this cd can be found right here at cd baby). After performing in thier hometown NC area they ventured to NY where two of the members have roots. In 2004, the decision was made to change the name to CARMONA-(the last name of two of the band members). The response was phenominally positive. IN the spring of 2004 CARMONA went into the studio to try to capture a closer representation of thier live power by re-recording some songs off thier previous debut effort, and by adding a couple of new tracks. The result was this new 7-song EP entitled "7 Days A Week". CARMONA continues to bring there music to audiences in the Southeast and will soon make more appearances up and down the East coast.
