Details: Reviews pouring in praising Harry Perry on his new release Video Commander, which is described as the outer space "Jimmy Hendrix meets James Brown and Ziggy Stardust". All philosophic paths and religious doctrines lead to the same eventuality in man's destiny the end is just as final for everyone. Kama Kosmic Krusader is uniting the love of mankind so that we are prepared for the eventuality of a world of human like machines and extraterrestrials all competing intergalactically in the rat race of an interplanetary interstellar economy. The unity and love aspirations of mankind and our spirit of artistic creation shall be the only things ensuring the continuing existence of the human species. The documented existence of life beyond our world has become more than a belief system because of the number of factual encounters and true-life experiences with aliens and interstellar intelligent machines. The truth of the matter is much more than an epiphany it is real interstellar communication by telepathic, technological and verbal means. The Harry Perry band has shared the stage with some incredible bands Jane's Addiction, Bob Segar, Ted Nugent, and the Stone Temple Pilots and they will continue to make new friends to collaborate with on tours to excite the palate of the thirsting insatiable hard music fan base world wide. Harry is the guy who skates the Venice Beach California Ocean front walk singing and playing the electric guitar performing hundreds of national and international media appearances. He has formerly been the most recognized street player on the planet who has now reinvented The Harry Perry Band with a new album release called Video Commander. He is launching his science fiction based rock crusade, reaching out to the millions of people who have seen his major network media appearances and who have been personally serenaded by him. He plans to tour nationally and internationally with his band to reach out to fans old and new in their local areas with his enthusiastic live musical performance on stage. He shall also continue new appearances with his band on network television and major motion pictures and commercial advertisement both nationally and internationally, as he launches his new hit video featuring the album title cut "Video Commander" complete with skate, dance and musical antics. On his path as an adventurer Harry Perry has been the personal student of guitar virtuosos and yoga masters, which have enlightened the birth of his creative genre. Having taken the practices of these great contemplatives and reinventing them in his many hours of repetition. The depicting of galactic battles-taking place in virtual reality self-corrupting them into a new musical fusion on the organic path as a human visionary. Harry is also well known for his appearances in several feature films including: White Men Can't Jump starring Woody Harrison, Point of No Return starring Bridget Fonda, and Dragnet co-starring Tom Hanks and Dan Akroyd. Harry's existence is still immortalized in fine art by well known artists on murals and in such musical appearances in hit videos made by such groups as Janet Jackson, Jane's Addiction The Monkees and The Gap Band. A twenty-foot figurine of Harry Perry is still paraded at Disneyland, California Adventure theme park on a regular basis.
