Details: Hoodoo Revelator is a five-piece band from Eastern Massachusetts, consisting of a male vocals, guitar, bass, harmonica, and drums. Since the band has several interests and talents, they are successful in many styles of music, but they specialize in the hip shakin', boogie groove of the Chicago Blues and the Rock-n-Roll sound that the Blues has influenced. Hoodoo Revelator strives to keep you impressively entertained with a wide array of blues, soul, and funk with both original material and cover material. HR is steadily working on producing original numbers. Their first original, Chipper's Boogie is a crowd favorite as are Eliza (written by guitarist Jim Chilson) and Do Me Right (written by lead vocalist/guitarist Jay Scheffler). This CD is their first and has garnered them radio play on major stations in Northeastern United States. Here's what's being said: Your CD sounds great and the songs work too! --Carter Alan, WZLX Boston I've been playing it too. It's so good! --Holly Harris, WBOS Boston Hoodoo Revelator plays hard-driving Jump-Boogie and greasy Swamp Rock nRoll that drives you to hit the dance floor. --Diana Shonk, The Blues Audience Hoodoo Revelator Serves up a swinging blues stew on their debut CD, Do Me Right. --Douglas Sloan, Metronome magazine I started shaking and shimmying. So did my wife and daughter. This is swaggering, pulsing, get-off-your-butt blues that gets me moving. --Chip Withrow, The Muses Muse
