Tea's second release -- a new brew of boss nouveau, French Afro-pop -- the perfect party music for the 21st hipster. 10 MP3 Songs in this album (57:21) ! Related styles: WORLD: World Fusion, ELECTRONIC: Ambient Details: Tea's second album, Dreams, has just been completed. The first release is "Voyages du Jour." Guitarist Franck Balloffet, from Lyon, France, and Southern California drummer/keyboardist Phil Bunch first met as members of Los Angeles premier African band, Bateke Beat, featuring multi-instrumentalist Fidel Bateke, formerly of Fela Kuti's ensemble from Nigeria. The group was the house band at the legendary L.A. club Flaming Colossus, as well as Malibu's Adobe. In the early 90s F&P departed Bateke Beat to lead the soul-afrobeat Orchestra Shegemo and Savwa, which included saxophonist Ravi Coltrane and vocalist Charlotte Gibson, for years a background singer with Whitney Houston, Chaka Khan, and Ricky Minor's band on American Idol. They emerged as the house band at infamous L.A. venues Po Na Na Souk and Bokaos. F&P have currently been producing and collaborating with unique vocalists: Congolese vocalists Steve "Ikhaman" Ngondo (previously with Tabu Le Rochereau), Ilongomo "Elo" Ememe, and American multi-lingual vocalists Chana (Tambu International Ensemble) and Suyen Mosely. Personnel on "Dreams" include legendary British keyboardist Brian Auger (Steampacket, Brian Auger's Trinity, Oblivion Express) playing Hammond B3 and Fender-Rhodes. Nigerias Remi Kabaka (guest percussionist on the Rolling Stones Winter 2002 West Coast tour, and the only African musician on Paul McCartney's Band On The Run album) is featured on talking drum and percussion. Bassists Andr Manga, from Cameroon (Angelique Kidjo, Josh Groban) and Bobby Tsukamoto (Neil Larsen, Michael Landau) are also included. as well as Cameroonian EMI studio guitarist Louis Wasson, saxophonists Randall Willis (Gerald Wilson, B Sharp Quartet) and Bobby English (Lou Rawls, the Spinners), as well as Frederic Meschin on trumpet, and Chris Darrow (Kaleidoscope, James Taylor) on slide guitar.
