Being part of this group is a good thing for her because she get to express the way she feel, and get a chance to speak for the people in the same category as herself. Her passion for music is more than words could ever say. Growing up she have always looked at TLC as a role model. The reason why she like TLC is because they have a bond that not many groups have today. She love's the connection they have as a group and as a family. When she first came to Scandalis Records people looked at her as if she didn't have the skills to do music. As a person Chrise' always said, "That if someone just give her a opportunity that she will make a difference in the rap game as a female, and that's what T. West "CEO" has done!. Chrise, says if nothing good comes from my music at least she got the chance to let everyone see what she's capable of doing. One thing he always did when listening to music, was that he wouldn't listen to the lyrics but listening the instruments and the melodies. But his love for producing music would change at the age of 12 when 1997's Chopper City in the Ghetto by B.G. hit his ear. He began writing his raps in school or at home. Then his luck came at good timing when he met Troy West who was unaware that T. West was his uncle because West was away playing college football, that was a surprise because Shyne always heard about West and success in football and that West was starting his label back up Scandalis had it's first member. J-Shyne's goals in life is to get his degree in Physical Education and play football where he currently a college student in Jacksonville, Fla. When ask J-Shyne what if Scandalis blow up?..... With the the struggles of holding down a full time job, he still manages time to put everything in his music. He comes from a family where music is almost a top priority so it be only natural. SplitA started to pursue a career the industry in 1999 while still in high school. After his dreams of persuing a professional baseball career ended due to an injury in late 1998, he has been steady working on new music. "Since i couldnt play ball i picked up the pen". After a few songs he found his place with other local artists and formed a group. After a couple months and a few mixtapes he decided this group wasn't for him. Then taking nearly a year off to work on new songs and new beats, Splita approached C.E.O. T-West about recording time in his studio. After recording "Hoppin' Out" in Mid 2005, Splita was shortly after a signed member to Scandalis Records. "It feels really good to work with other artist that share the same passion as myself for music." With the support of his family and the streets, he's gonna give it everything...
