Colombian groove with lyrics about matters of the heart, rhythms to make you dance and orchestration that grabs your ears-Cutting edge Colombian music 10 MP3 Songs in this album (47:19) ! Related styles: WORLD: World Fusion, LATIN: Latin Jazz Details: Check out Pablo Mayor on the cover of Latin Beat magazine, May 2009! Here's a review from inside the magazine: This is the third production of the New York City-based band Folklore Urbano, led by multi-hyphenate Pablo Mayor, and his wife, Anna Povich de Mayor (flutist and band manager). Since their debut recording "Aviso" (2003), Mayor and Folklore Urbano have been redefining modern Colombian music by fusing its traditional folkloric rhythms with elements of jazz and other musical influences, resulting in a unique sound. Corazn (Heart) includes a total of ten scores, eight of which are original compositions penned by Mayor, who also arranges all the tracks. The twelve-member collective known as Folklore Urbano swings like a fine-tuned big band as it takes the roots of Colombian rhythms on a rollercoaster ride of sophisticated arrangements and liberating jazzy applications, track after track. Mayor is a devotee of crosscultural diversity and moody experimentations, who creates compelling music, full of textural complexity. Adding vocal elements to the band are Sofa Rei Koutsovitis and Ronald Polo. Highlighting this dazzling recording are the tracks "Cada Vez", "Expresar Amor", "Djate Amar", and Paelitos Blancos. -Rudy Mingual, Latin Beat, May 2009 issue. More info. on Pablo Mayor: Pablo Mayor, composer, arranger, pianist, from Cali, Colombia, holds both a B.A. and an M.A. in Jazz Arranging from the University of North Texas. While Professor of Jazz at Universidad Javeriana in Bogot, Colombia, in 1998, Mr. Mayor began his personal investigation of the native music of Colombia. Although it will be a lifelong process of discovery, Mr. Mayor has taken his knowledge of Colombian folklore and has combined it with an extensive knowledge of jazz harmonies and arranging. Since moving to NYC in 1999, Mr. Mayors reputation has grown from that of a brilliant pianist and writer, to that of a leader and visionary. His work with his band Folklore Urbano has produced three CDs and taken the band to both national and international venues. Beginning in 2003, featuring the renowned Gaiteros de San Jacinto, he founded the annual Encounter of Colombian Musicians in New York, an event in its sixth year running uniting Colombian musicians in an effort to document what he calls a movement of Colombian musicians in the world, beginning in New York City. The Sixth Annual Encounter of Colombian Musicians in NY will be held June 14, 2009, at the High Line Ballroom in Manhattan, featuring such renowned musicians as Hector Martignon, Samuel Torres, Edmar Castaeda, Marta Gomez, Lucia Pulido, as well as Folklore Urbano and others. Mr Mayor has become a representative for Colombian music and culture in the USA; in 2008, Mr. Mayor was invited to speak on Colombian music at the Colombian Embassy on Capitol Hill, during the 2008 celebration featuring Petrona Martinez. In addition to his Colombian project, Mr. Mayor has been working as both pianist and arranger for Orquesta Broadway, where his music and piano playing is featured on their forty-year celebration CD, and has been an active pianist in the Afro-Cuban scene. Pablo Mayors renowned big band compositions were recorded by the Grammy award winning One O'Clock Lab band and his music was performed in March 2009 by Arturo O'Farrills Afro-Latin Jazz Orchestra at Symphony Space in NYC. Mr. Mayor wrote and produced the music for A Clear Midnight, El Patio, El Pesebre, Guadalupe, A os Sin Cuenta (in conjunction with artist Omar Rayo), and Allende: The Death of a President, live theatre productions by the ID Studio performed throughout the NYC area. He most recently composed and directed music for El Paso del Norte, directed by Germn Jaramillo, at the Theater for the New City in Manhattan. He is an arranger for Drop 6 Media, Inc, a publishing company based in Denton, TX. Since 1999, he has been professor of Latin piano at the Harbor Conservatory for the Performing Arts, where he teaches Latin piano and directs the Latin jazz ensembles, and co-directs an annual summer workshop in Latin music. He has taught jazz arranging at the Brooklyn-Queens Conservatory. Mr. Mayor has produced and arranged for musicians, such as Toto La Momposina and Armando Manzanero, in Dallas, Chicago, New York, Colombia, and Mexico..
