Glenn T. Hubbard's original music can perhaps best be described as eclectic pop a blend of his many influences, from the Beatles, Steely Dan, Yes, Billy Joel, They Might Be Giants and Phish, to hints of jazz, hard rock, and more. 12 MP3 Songs POP: Beatles-pop, POP: Piano Details: Glenn Hubbard is a living, breathing mixed metaphor: a musical chameleon and jack-of-all-trades rolled into one. He's been playing professionally for nearly a quarter century, a pianist, bassist, drummer and guitarist who even picks up a saxophone every now and then. He has performed just about every style of music imaginable - from Top-40, Jazz, Rock, Blues, Country and Bluegrass - to Classical, Broadway, Polka and Dixieland; and he's equally at home in all of these styles. He started playing in the "Green Park Inn Big Band," under the direction of his father Bill Hubbard, in 1983. Since then he's entertained thousands across the eastern United States in the bands "Azz Iz," "The Animal Crackers," "Cloud Nine," and "Liz Harmon and the Common Threads." When not playing in established bands, he's been one of the most sought-after "hired guns" in the Western North Carolina music scene. Glenn has produced and engineered several popular CDs, including his new solo release, "The Hubbard Concept." A broadcaster in his other life, Glenn is working on a Ph.D. in Communications at the University of Tennessee.
