CLASSICAL: Traditional Details: Organist and pianist Dr. Sean Jackson is a Doctoral graduate of The Juilliard School in New York where he also received his Master of Music Degree in 1999 under the tutelage of Gerre Hancock. A native of the beautiful island of Barbados in the Caribbean, Dr. Jackson left his homeland in 1992 to pursue a Bachelor of Music degree at The Royal College of Music in London. There, he studied organ with Nicholas Danby and piano with concert pianist Peter Katin. Since graduating he has performed in other West Indian islands, the United Kingdom, Northern Ireland, Germany, Taiwan, Canada, and the United States of America. Dr. Jackson began his musical studies at the age of five and by the age of eleven had won his first gold medal in his countrys National Independence Festival of the Creative Arts. Subsequently awarded the National Youth Award from the Barbados government, Dr. Jackson has gone on to receive numerous prizes internationally including the Parratt, Walford Davies, and Geoffrey Tankard organ prizes and the Douglas Whittaker Chamber Music Prize, all at the Royal College of Music. Since entering The Juilliard School in 1996, he has been the recipient of the A.H. Kuhn Memorial Scholarship, the 1999 William Schumann Prize, and the C.V Starr Doctoral Fellowship. In October 2000, Dr. Jackson won an organ competition at The Juilliard School and subsequently performed Stephen Pauluss Organ Concerto with the Juilliard Symphony at Alice Tully Hall. He was featured again with the Juilliard Symphony at Lincoln Centre in November 2003 with a performance of the Saint-Sans Organ Symphony. Other notable appearances include a performance as guest organist with the New York Youth Symphony at Carnegie Hall. At Juilliard, Dr. Jackson studied piano with Jacob Lateiner and organ with John Weaver during his doctoral program. He spent six years as Assistant Organist at Trinity

Episcopal Church on Wall Street, New York, where he recorded with the Trinity Choir on the Naxos label. In August 2004, Dr. Jackson began his duties as Director of Music at St. Johns Episcopal Church in Stamford, Connecticut.
