eclectic debut album from rising singer-songwriter 11 MP3 Songs ROCK: Modern Rock, ROCK: Surf Rock Details: lost at sea is the debut album from bryan master. the culmination of a quarter century's worth of life experiences, the title alone sums it up - a collection of songs about being young, coming of age and feeling 'lost at sea'. the majority of the recording took place in los angeles with bryan performing nearly all of the instruments himself - drums, piano, guitar and vocals). recording in acclaimed hollywood studios cello and studio 56, he attracted world-class musicians such as renowned bassist phil chen, who lent his talents to the project. with stand-out tracks 'reunion of sorts', 'now or never' and 'bring out the stars', cuts from lost at sea have won songwriting contests and received national radio airplay. bio bryan master truly illustrates what it means to be a singer-songwriter - enjoying the freedom of crossing supposed musical boundaries and having the guts to blur lines through a range of passionate topics. this 27-year-old multi-instrumentalist blends an eclectic mix of rock with the melodic world of pop. from quiet and haunting to edgy and raw, bryan pulls from a myriad of influences to create songs that are a little of everything - but always intriguing and catchy. with long blonde hair and his quirky upside-down, left-handed guitar-stylings, this troubadour has spent the last four years traveling back and forth between his home base of new york city and los angeles writing, recording and performing at some of the top clubs on both coasts. bryan independently released his sophomore effort, incommunicado, in the fall of 2004. growing up in a south jersey suburb of philadelphia, bryan was studying the trumpet and piano by the age of eight...his first drum set soon followed. with every spare adolescent moment, he taught himself the art of percussion. in 2000, after five years as drummer for new york city band 'mother bacchus', he left the band and began playing city venues as a solo, acoustic act. his passionate live sets, catchy songs and thoughtful lyrics immediately began attracting audiences. bryan has spent the majority of 2004 recording his sophomore album, incomunicado. again, performing almost every sound on the record, he delivers songs centrally grounded in how the 'simple' art of communication affects relationships - relationships with others, with oneself, and with the world around us. released in the fall of 2004, incomunicado is evidence of growing steps in both song-writing style and musical direction. bryan continues to tour both solo and with backing band in support of the new album. venues/cities where you can catch BM: los angeles - hotel cafe, the whisky, the mint, room 5 lounge, house of blues, viper room, key club nyc - mercury lounge, fez, the cutting room, sin-e, the knitting factory, pianos, luna lounge philadelphia - wxpn's world cafe live, the point, pontiac grille, tin angel, grape st. philadelphia austin - lucky lounge las vegas - thomas mack center
