Yet only voices like Toronto's Courtney Farquhar have the aptitude to pull it off..." --CG, Soundproof Magazine (Feb.06) Courtney's song writing abilities began very early on when, at five, she wrote a song about the beauty of colours and at 7 wrote about love lost and heartbreak! Needless to say, she had a great imagination and an incredible ear for melody. It was always very clear to Courtney that becoming a professional singer/songwriter was without question her destiny. "There were definitely times of confusion, you know, seeing your close friends becoming lawyers and doctors, but, with a little help and a lot perseverance, I knew that music was the only choice for me - the only thing that I could do for the rest of my life that would make me truly happy". And that's what Courtney is doing! At 26, Courtney is writing songs with a maturity that captures listeners. The release of her song "That's What Happens" on Warner's 'Women and Songs 7' was a great start to her success. Now with the release of her debut EP, 'All My Friends Are Superheroes', Courtney continues to turn heads with her intriguing lyrics and electrifying live performances.
