He has issues, but hes not violent, not really. He may drink a little too much alcohol on occasion, and he may smoke a little too much, but really, he still has it together, sorta. A SD native, M.T. has never moved from the area, (or moved out of his moms garage). We think he is scared. So scared in fact, he actually stayed in town, went to school, and graduated from SDSU with a teaching degree, (which he will probably never put to use). M.T. established M.T. Minded Industries in 2004 and has since invested all of his time and energy in pursuing a career that few thought would endure. A writer, a producer, a singer and a rapper, M.T. combines dancehall reggae and hip-hop in a fusion fashion that is an ultimate reflection of his life growing up in the diversity of Americas Finest city. As of recent, M.T. has developed into a businessman of sorts, as he is currently undertaking the incredibly difficult task of managing his music career while at the same time maintaining an independent record label. Although an arduous task, he is a hard working, driven individual and has set his mind to succeeding in the music industry. Through his 27 short years, M.T. has never killed a shark, he has never wrestled a bear, never climbed a huge mountain just to see what was on top, he doesnt wear ice, doesnt drink Cristal or drive a Hummer, none of the superstar stuff people might expect from a man of this caliber. He dated a super model once, but she left him, (no surprise there). He is a regular cat, just chillin in fact, so crack open a bottle of your favorite, smoke em if you got em, kick back and listen.
