With tasty grooves so rich and earthy, you'll be dancing in the lush wilderness! Hang up your stilettos, sell your house and dance barefoot in the mud was the message Jo got when she honoured her calling to write her debut album Letting Love In. After an abundant and colourful 20 year music career playing cabaret, jazz clubs and band circuits in Asia and Australia, performing with such luminaries as Iva Davies (Icehouse) and James Morrison, Jo had to come back to earth and back to herself to find inspiration for her songs. Her sequins and feathers went into the dress up box, the dance poles, stages and catwalks morphed into trees, headlands and forest trails. Jo left the city life behind and went bush. Australias Northern Beaches, Daintree, Kakadu, Himalayas, Hanging Rock, rainforest, river, earth, spirit and heart. This album is my dream my dream come true. It is about the trails Ive walked. The inner, outer and mysterious journeys, blessed with the beautiful spirit of life. The spirit sings through the trees, the earth, wind and fire. It dances on the ocean with the rising moon, It lives in the shadows and shines in the eyes of all humanity. I am deeply grateful to our mother earth, my family and friends and all those who have inspired me to reveal my truth, to sing my songs and record them for the world to hear. This is my gift to you Jos album, produced by Ashley Cadell of Destinova Records, is new age electronica with lush, chilled and groovy songs for the spirit. An inspiring alchemy of velvet vocals and electronic soundscapes with tribal beats and world sounds so rich and earthy, you'll be dancing in the lush wilderness! So, slip off your shoes,
