Details: Mag Elliott is an extraordinary singer and songwriter. One of twenty musically gifted children, reared in her fathers church in Charleston, South Carolina, Mag grew up singing. At the tender age of seven, Mag was touring the local gospel circuit with her mother, whom she attributes much of her talent. Audiences were wowed by little Mags musical abilities. Her mother quickly recognized there was something extra special about young Mag. Mag continued to sing and her voice became more and more incredible as she matured. At eighteen, Mag released her first gospel single, Worthy. The single was well received and shortly after its release Mag was sought by many major artists. Mags career continued to soar. Mag became one of the singers for world renowned Dr. Bobby Jones. She has made several television appearances including performing on Bobby Jones Gospel Show and Showtime at the Apollo. She has performed with Yolanda Adams, Kirk Franklin, Brandy, Boyz to Men and many others. She has had the opportunity to be a finalist for the show "Born to Diva" on VH1. She also became a finalist for Atlanta Idol, a well known showcase sponsored by Atlanta's premiered radio station, V103. She has also worked with platinum producer Hiram Hicks (of Blackground Music Label) on the track "Oh Yeah", and also released her first R&B track "Merry Go Round" on Kiss 98.7, a well known radio station in New York city, hoping to put her stamp on the music industry. Although gospel is her roots, Mag loves all genres of music. She desires to share her style of music which fuses R&B, Soul, Pop, Rock and Gospel. She feels this will open doors to bigger arenas and attract wider audiences allowing her to share her music and talent on a global scale. She loves performing and connects with her audience. Mag desires to sign with a label that understands her vision and allows her passion for all genres to flourish. Mag is a trendsetter and will lead the way in bringing back singers who possess awesome vocal abilities. Mag currently resides in Atlanta, Georgia and has been performing locally. Audiences continue to beg for encore performances of Mags fiery hit tunes "Brutha" and "Game". She is destined for success!
