Details: Matt Dahan is all about evolution. He is a third generation pianist in a family that has been performing since the Great Depression. The first piano that he used to write on was a foot long and had 20 keys. Trained at Berklee College of Music and educated in nearly every style, his music is as eclectic as it is relevant. Furthermore, his style has grown and matured during the most tumultuous and groundbreaking era that the music industry has ever known. Matt Dahan is the evolution of piano pop. His inspirations range from Billy Joel to Bono, from The Goo Goo Dolls to George Gershwin. Through years of incorporating all eras of his genre into his songs, he has found a new strain of pop that is uniquely his own. Upon listening, it sounds both radio-friendly and progressive, both refreshing and familiar. Every lyric is from the heart, whether it is describing the thrill of a newfound love, the soul-searching days after a breakup, or discovering how far a person is willing to go to find out who they are. Listen, enjoy, and see what you can discover.
