Details: The Disparities' third LP combines literate and melodic pop songwriting with lush, moody soundscapes of guitar and vintage synthesizer, channeling the bright heat and anxiety of not-so-peaceful summers in the boys' hometown. The songs, inspired by everything from 1929 photographs to a line from a Vladimir Nabokov short story, vary from sparse to symphonic, stately to forceful. What links them together is a persistently incisive lyrical sensibility, coupled with the tension between organic and synthetic sounds.
