Singer/songwriter Bryan Fox formed the band in Jan of 2000. First to join was drummer Ryan Murphy and Danny De La Cruz. The trio wrote, arranged, and recorded around 20 songs and immediately caught label attention when their single "Yes" gained heavy spins on Louisville radio. EOM also caught the attention of producer Malcolm Springer(MILE,SINCH,COLLECTIVE SOUL,MATCHBOX 20). Malcolm took the band in the studio (and to the next level) in 2003 and started work on 4 tracks. With the breakup of Outspoken (LAVA), End of Me recruited friend Shaun Kennedy to fill in the bass position and continued writing songs and touring the tri-state area. EOM just released a self-titled cd with 14 tracks and is now out on the road touring to support it.
