Zero: "...stirring audio adaptation that the whole family can enjoy, perfect for long car trips. Highly recommended." Midwest Book Review "Mr. Peterson has begun what looks like could become the next big young adult series. I was spellbound from the very beginning. I loved how someone [as] average as Simon turned out to be more than anyone could ever imagine." Fallen Angel Reviews (Recommended Read) "For a first time novelist Peterson shows a good grasp of what makes a book exciting, injecting his novel with a cracking pace, endearing characters - and the story's breakneck climax is well worth the wait... I wouldn't be surprised if the book wasn't optioned for a film sometime in the future... well worth buying..." Sci-fi Online "Its rollicking adventure style reminds this reader of a cross between Harry Potter's adventures and those of Artemis Fowl. Colorful characters, fast-paced adventure, and clever humor make this an interesting read." Teens Read Too "...I greatly enjoyed the story... a must read for anyone who loves fantasy and for anyone who loves a good adventure/coming-of-age novel." Flamingnet TOP CHOICE Award "The story follows young Simon Kent, an orphan and a victim of bullies, as he is suddenly catapulted into a series of adventures by an encounter with a young student of magic." School Library Journal "...tale of magic, mayhem, and maturation... action packed... A reasonable blend of science fiction and fantasy, Simon's adventures should appeal to middle schoolers..." VOYA "...murderous villains, mighty warriors, goddess-like women, impossible problems and some of the wildest chases since the Keystone Kops. More fun than a barrel of computer games. Read it. Trust me, you'll have a terrific time on that borderland." Douglas Hill (bestselling author of nearly 70 books) "Flame throwing pigeons and demonic dumpsters. Funny and imaginative." Maria V. Snyder (New York Times bestselling author of Poison Study) About the Author: Matthew Peterson is an award-winning writer, second degree black belt in karate, Eagle scout, computer programmer and former missionary.
