An eclectic mix of reconstructed American tunes, subversive blues and jazz, terrifying orchestral attacks, cheeky electronica, and restless world music. A dark rainbow of post-9/11 emotions. 27 MP3 Songs
CLASSICAL: Contemporary, ELECTRONIC: Experimental Details: The film "Liberty Bound" is Christine Rose's odyssey across the United States, asking: - Are Americans losing their civil liberties? - Why are America's friends now calling the U.S. a fascist empire? - Are the U.S. Constitution and Bill of Rights in jeopardy? The film score unites orchestral music, blues, jazz, pop, world music, and electronica in a quilted portrait of New York and the purple mountains in the post 9/11 era. It swings between David Schell's ironic "Napalm Blues" and D.N.B. Pedergrana's tragic themes of terrorist attack. It also includes a haunting reconstruction of "America the Beautiful," amusing variations on "The Yellow Rose of Texas," and a bonus song--"We Will Adapt"-- which was inspired by the film (sung by Susan Hancock). This music affirms America's ruptured psyche and asks, "Is the United States bound for liberty-- or does it just have liberty bound?"
