Despite the California Drivers License in the front pocket of his Levis and the blue California plates on his freedom-rockin 1970 Ford SuperVan, Joe "HUTCH" Hutchinson refuses to give up his native Elizabeth, New Jersey accent. HUTCH doesnt sing songs about the sunny surf and cool waves of So Cal, nor do his songs reflect the hedonistic lifestyle that comes to mind when someones Myspace profile says they are from Tinseltown. Instead, he writes songs that document the human experience in a way that appeals to the every-person. His uncanny knack for weaving universal themes into his music has caught the ears of listeners worldwide, including legendary rocker Sammy Hagar, whom Joe collaborated with on the title track to Hagar's recent Billboard Charting release, "Not 4 Sale. With influences ranging from Classic Rock British Pop, to the Blues, Roots Folk, HUTCH is a prolific self-taught Singer/Songwriter who learned his craft from artists like Pete Townshend, Paul Westerberg, John Lennon, Ray Davies, and Paul Simon. And lets not forget to mention the fact that unlike typical singer/songwriters, HUTCH can actually play a LOUD and MEAN GUITAR with the best of em when necessary! FOR ME, SONGWRITING IS NOT SO MUCH A CRAFT AS IT IS AN OUTLET. ITS MY VOICE WHEN I CANT PUT INTO WORDS THE STUFF I FEEL OR CANT STOP THINKING ABOUT. HUTCH is equally at home writing and recording in the studio, performing intimate coffeehouse settings on acoustic guitar piano, and delivering explosive full-wattage arena-rock type shows with his band-mates. It's this type of versatility that keeps his music interesting and helps him defy classification, although he says, Pure-Folk-Pop is the one label that doesnt make me cringe! A descendant of his once controversial ancestors, The Hutchinson Family Singers, (whom were famous during the mid 19th century for supporting many humanitarian efforts, including womens rights, temperance and abolition), HUTCH is committed to continuing the work of his family and hopes to deliver an honest, positive message that will remain relevant for years to come. Currently, HUTCH is challenging the music industry with a grassroots promotional campaign for his third release, Just Another Folkin Son Of A HUTCH, of which hes asked fans to purchase 5 copies each to give to their local library branch, their favorite Starbucks barista, and their Hairdresser, among others. A brilliant idea thats working to help him reach deeply into the community while bypassing the giants of commercial pop and teen-idol obsession, and the treadmill they came in on. (As a recent parent of a child with Autistic Spectrum Disorder, HUTCH is committed to raising Autism awareness and sharing this life journey with other parents and their similarly challenged children. He is also a member of the California Green Party and is Anti-GMO, supporting Alternative Medicine Energy, Organic Farming, Religious Freedom, Native American Heritage, and Historical Preservation.)
