Surrealistic Power Pop. 13 MP3 Songs in this album (34:45) ! Related styles: POP: Beatles-pop, POP: Britpop People who are interested in The Bangles The Beatles should consider this download. Details: The layered guitars (both six and twelve string electric and acoustic) seem to swirl gently together throughout these songs, which along with the matching multitracked vocals, give the songs an almost hypnotizing beauty-Indiepages "Second Foundation" is a quantum leap above the prevalent musical mediocrity of the early twenty-first century- Blitz Magazine The album of the month award goes to Tom Alford's Second Foundation. This album is chock full of catchy, jangly pop tunes and I get a late 80's Grapes of Wrath vibe from these songs. "Strawberry Robot", "Shiloh", "What could have been", "I'm the only one", "Look to the stars", "Someday girl", and "I'm in love" all feature hooks and vocals that would also compare favorably with Ric Menck's solo work. Well done, Sir Tom! -Fufkin
