Born in a low class neighborhood with violence and drugs at every turn Jameel was forced to rely on his street wits for survival. Due to the strict code of the street, with no other means of ,expression Jameel began rhyming at the age of 11 in order to express himself. With his brothers and two others from the neighborhood, he formed the group Newark Terriors. The group did well for there age but Jameel later realized with growth there had to be change. He then changed the name of his group to M.I.S.F.I.T.S.,(Misguided Individuals Seeking Fortune In The Streets). With a string of criminal charges,ranging from drug charges to gun charges that followed him, he decided to coin the moniker "Chaos". Chaos gave a description to his rap style, his lifestyle, and the things going on in his mind. After being managed by several that promised riches and fame, (all of which were broken) he decided it was time for another change. With a small army of neighborhood kids following his lead he decided to scrap the M.I.S.F.I.T.S. name and become the General of the unofficially named clique Front Line Soldiers. Using his business skills he acquired from the streets, Chaos realized that he could be successful with anything he chose. He then founded the media company Friend Or Foe Entertainment LLC, where he serves as artist and CEO. With family his on side , a new outlook on life, and a more mature rap style, Chaos has easily become New Jersey's premier artist and the next biggest entity.
