A Rockfest for Cool Kids (you know who you are.) Daddy A Go Go celebrates 10-years of making rock and roll music for kids families with a Classic Rock Tribute to all things good, vital, and fun about being a kid. Call this rock and roll's 'Ode To Joy.' 12 MP3 Songs KIDS/FAMILY: General Children's Music, KIDS/FAMILY: Children's Pop Show all album songs: Rock of All Ages Songs Details: Daddy A Go-Go CD Celebrates 10-Years of Rock and Roll for Kids w/new CD release Rock of All Ages Atlanta, GA (February 2008) Boyds Tone Records announces the release of Rock of All Ages, the newest CD by Daddy A Go Go, a.k.a. Atlanta stay-at-home dad John Boydston. Its his sixth CD of rocking tunes for the pre- and post-K crowd, and he has hit his stride with his latest release. Without really trying, Boydston says, what I think Ive come up with is my Classic Rock tribute to kids and modern family life. Some of the new song titles seem to bear this out: Get Yer Yo-Yos Out, clearly a nod to The Rolling Stones classic live LP Get Your Ya-Yas Out. Then theres John Barleycorn Must Dye, the ballad of a boy who lives to tie dye, and a wink to Traffics classic LP John Barleycorn Must Die. Throw in eight more original rockers, a little Chuck Berry and a smokin version of What A Wonderful World, and you have a rock and roll CD literally of, by, and for all ages. The Family That Rocks Together: Playing and singing on Dads records is nothing new for Boydstons two sons, Jake and Max; theyve been doing it since they were pre-schoolers. But now theyre old enough and good enough players to perform with Dad on stage. They are the band, Boydston says. Theyve already played some high-profile shows, including a showcase gig at Austins hipster-fest South by Southwest in 2007. Then it was back to Texas for the Austin City Limits Festival. Theyll be in Athens, Ga later this month. The newly formed Daddy A Go-Go Band is Max (13) on guitar vocals, Jake (16) on bass vocals, and family-friend Jonathan Paz (16) on drums. And while Daddy may know best, sometimes children are the real teachers. Boydston explains: The energy these kids bring to my songs when we play them live on stage reminds me why I started doing this in the first place -- the sheer joy of rock itself and the fun of bringing it to a young audience that may be hearing a rock band or real rock and roll for the first time. I was lucky that I passed that on to my kids, because now they've passed it right back to me when I needed to relearn it. They really motivated me to start writing some new songs. Rock of All Ages is a triumphant return to form for Daddy A Go Go. The themes of innocent fun, dancing, singing, and general rock and roll silliness clearly echo those of Cool Songs for Cool Kids, Daddy A Go Gos debut CD in 1998. That CD put Daddy A Go Go on the Kids Music Map after making Amazon.com's Top 10 Best Kids CDs of the Year, a feat accomplished by all but one of his CDs so far. He's won two coveted Parents Choice Awards and a ton of other accolades along the way, and is a regular on XMKIDS. And like Cool Songs the energy on the new CD is highly infectious. If you don't believe it just let your kids give Nana-Nana Boo-Boo a spin (one of several kids sing-along songs) and after the 20th repeat playing don't say we didn't warn you. (Don't worry parents there's cowbell and a wah-wah pedal on it for you). Newsweek describes Daddy A Go Gos music as wonderfully warm and upbeat the perfect soundtrack for washing the mini-van or just bopping around the kitchen. The Washington Post credits Daddy a Go Go with helping change the face of kids music by moving playroom tunes into the pop-rock era and leaving the childhood jingles of Barney and Disney in history's nursery. And Billboard says Daddy A Go Gos alterna-rock vibe sets the band apart from the vast majority of preschool targeted children's music. As the New York Post succinctly comments, this is one hip daddy! Recommended for ages 3 and up.
