Details: HARTE began her singing and songwriting career like many, honing her talents in coffeeshop open mics at a young age and attracting interest and praise with her original sound in the San Diego community where she grew up. But her story takes a much different turn than most when at age sixteen she moved to Israel to study and inevitably shape her distinct and unique songwriting style into a fusion of hip-hop and acoustic-soul. Bouncing between the U.S. and Israel has afforded Harte experiences and a perspective not many can claim. She has written and recorded in New York with hip-hop artists Killah Priest, Remedy, Hell Raza, and has appeared on several recordings with the Wutang Clans Killah Priest and the Macabbees Black Market album. During her stay in Israel, Harte recorded many songs with Israels most prominent and successful recording artists gaining her invaluable experience as well as local popularity with her singing and songwriting talents. Harte has since returned to the United States and completed her first self-titled EP with producer Steve Deutsch. Tags: pop
