Dreamy electronic pop 12 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Electronica, POP: Dream Pop Details: Involution is the debut album from the UK producers and duo MEBA. Think Massive Attack's Mezzanine but with more happiness or Portishead just having a good day mixed with Orbital's beat wizardry! Involution is an emotional electronica traipse that reflects the beauty and depths of emotional intimacy. Meba's vocals are hypnotic, alluring and angelic entwined with their beautiful light and dark mellow trip-hop grooves. Involution is a beautiful album packed from the second it starts to the last note. It is filled with honesty, feeling and magical musical dreams. Betcha: Opens with thumping beats and rumbling electro bass. Monterria ad libs like Kate Bush over some atmospheric and lush production. A sensual opening. Solar Underground: Bru, the other half of Meba, contributes vocals on this shimmering track. His sincere vocal delivery and zen-like lyrics make pleasant listening. I Will: Features an infectious chorus. This song highlights Meba's melodic sensibilities and their inclination for memorable melodies. Sexandmusic: Monterria and Bru share vocals on this Timbaland-esque rhythm assisted by dreamy choral synths. The end result gleams with symphonic beauty. Quest: Delicate and halcyon, Monterria's lyrics evoke magic and fantasy. The lush production makes it an ethereal gem. Loop: The drum programming in Loop is reminiscent of The Smashing Pumpkins' track 1979. Loop is a life affirming love song with a melody that will melt your heart. My love: Recalls Garbage's (the band!) more sombre moments. A poignant song about loves' discontent, sung with spine tingling empathy. Turn away: One of many potential singles, another memorable chorus. Meba have a knack of transforming classic pop melodies into their own electronic template. Populate: Evokes Massive Attack eeriness, glazed with Meba's trademark futuristic sheen. Chrysalis: Sounding like it should be in a dark Sci-Fi film, a slow builder that ascends into a dynamic stomper. Great Tree: Punctuated with idiosyncratic squelches and ambient noises reminiscent of Leftfield. The elaborate programming is juxtaposed with soaring vocals. Be Still: Cinematic trance, with a hypnotic rhythm, shares the same vibe as Great Tree. Overall, this is an engaging album to listen to, with a myriad of sounds...Meba have successfully merge popular melodies with electronica. Essential for fans of Bjrk, Orbital, Leftfield, Thom Yorke, Lamb MEBA BIO: In 2005, two young aspiring musicians, Monterria and Bru, decided to get together and have a bit of musical play. Thus, MEBA was born. Having spent a considerable amount of time professionally honing their individual skills, by working with other producers and artists, they felt they were ready to create the type of music they loved. "We wanted to probe the boundaries of genre, exploring sound and vocals without the constriction of an accepted musical canon." Both are highly capable producers, songwriters and vocalists so they dont have that typical producer-vocalist setup. They create everything together! From the outset they have held the belief that their music should be completely original without the use of third party sampling. Everything is of their own composition and orchestration. In return, this freedom has allowed MEBA to seamlessly fuse genres into an organic sound without losing the influential echoes of artists they admire. They call their sound dreamy electronic pop with a dash of urban flavour! The result is their debut album INVOLUTION. "This album reflects the beauty and depths of emotional intimacy and the journey getting there. It's about all the different aspects of falling and being in love."
