Or, in Steve's case, any time at the office. After life in corporate America he is now a recording artist, songwriter, and performing musician. Steve's debut CD, Christmas Guitar, is sold around the world. He has followed up with five more CD's: Romantic Guitar, Half Irish Guitar, Patriotic Guitar, and Original Guitar, each with a companion book of transcriptions. As a producer and performance coach, Steve works with songwriters and performers and public speakers of all kinds. His approach to stage work has helped further the careers of many new artists including Kevin So, Mary Gauthier, Ellen Schmidt, British singer/songwriter Paul Chi, and German composer/pianist Ivo Wiesner. He is communications consultant to The American Success Institute in Natick, Massachusetts success.org. Steve wrote The Art of the Soloperformer: A Field Guide to Stage Podium. A book about connecting with the audience. Steve holds a Masters Degree in Communication Management from Simmons College. He lives in Boston, Massachusetts with Rosemary, his wife of thirty plus years--they married young, it was quite a scandal at the time.
