The original instrumental compositions are performed by the composer herself; their common desire is to offer a peaceful and meditative experience. Ann Marie Kurrasch's music has been described as moving, tender and sensitive, that captures emotions and elicits feelings. This album is no exception. It begins with the gentle drops of rain falling on the tropical paradise of Maui--"Refreshing Rain." Numbers 2 3 are love songs to a newborn baby. Such love and joy in the birth, such wonder and awe as one rocks the tiny one to sleep while singing the baby's very own lullaby--"A Kiss from Grammie" and "Alexi's First Lullaby." Three more lullabies follow which make this CD a wonderful addition to the nursery. "Waves at Sunset," number 8, begins with the harp and strings trying to capture an indescribably beautiful sunset on Maui. They build as the sun disappears on the softly lapping waves. Gorgeous reds and purples fill the sky and one is transformed by something wonderful and fulfilling. Number 9, "Song of Love," is a beautiful duet of flute and piano that was written for a wedding. The flute sings the words of love that embody the joy of the new couple as they light the unity candle and stand together amidst their friends and family declaring their love. This refreshing album ends with "A World of Peace and Beauty," a most restful duet with flute and strings intertwining in soft and lyrical movements. While the angst of life attempts to compromise our peace and beauty, in the mid section, the song ends with a return to the soaring opening theme. And so ends this album of restful and soothing music. Ann Marie Kurrasch is a composer, songwriter, performer, and educator who resides in the Los Angeles area.
