Details: Blending Rumba Flamenco with Jazz, Bossa Nova, and Middle Eastern influences, Vincent Zorn's sound has been likened to a combination of Nouveau Flamenco Artist's Ottmar Liebert, Jesse Cook, Willie Lobo, Rumba Super-Group The Gipsy Kings, Legendary Flamenco Guitarist Manitas De Plata. "As I am mainly a guitarist, my compositions are rooted in that instrument. However, melodically, I think my playing stems from more of a singers perspective. Guitarists can get very wrapped up in the technicality of the instrument, forgetting that the the basis of any great song lies within the melody. I compose with this in mind. That is why my compositions generally feature very simplistic melodic themes rather than complex melodic passages that focus on the mechanics and technicalities of the guitar." As co-founder and co-writer of Flamenco - dance band Last Caravan from 1997-2000, Vincent Zorn has toured extensively throughout California playing Large outdoor Festivals such as: The California State Fair, Bill Graham's Mountain Aire Music Festival, The High Sierra Music Festival, The Bear Valley Music Festival, The Chico World Music Festival, and every restaurant, coffee shop, club, college in Northern Southern California. Currently you can find Vincent in Santa Barbara, California were he lives and performs regularly at two popular bistros, and many private events.
